

Settings

What is general settings?

The fields on this screen determine some of the basics of your site setup.

Most themes display the site title at the top of every page, in the title bar of the browser, and as the identifying name for syndicated feeds. The tagline is also displayed by many themes.

The WordPress URL and the Site URL can be the same (example.com) or different; for example, having the WordPress core files (example.com/wordpress) in a subdirectory instead of the root directory.

The screenshot shows the WordPress 'General Settings' page. On the left is a dark sidebar menu with 'Settings' highlighted in blue. A red arrow points from a white box containing the text '1. Click "Settings"' to the 'Settings' menu item. The main content area shows various settings: Site Title (myblog.arts), Tagline (blogs for University of the Arts London), Email Address (empty), Timezone (UTC+0), Date Format (Custom: F j, Y), and Time Format (3:58 pm). A red arrow points from a white box containing the text 'UTC means Coordinated Universal Time' to the 'Universal time (GMT) is 2016-11-10 15:58:21' text.

Bad Behavior
Bad Behavior Whitelist
Forums
Twitter Feed
Edit Author Slug
Google Analytics
Multitrack
Portfolio Slideshow
SG OAuth Settings

Documentation on date and time formatting.

Week Starts On

Site Language

2. Click "Save Changes"

Further Support

Additional support is on hand should you require help. Contact the Digital Learning Support team at elearning-support@arts.ac.uk

This work by Digital Learning, University of the Arts London is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-ShareAlike 3.0 Unported License